SUMMARY OF EXPERIENCE

Felix joined CUSP in 2022 whilst studying Landscape Architecture at QUT. He's previously worked in marketing and graphic design across multiple industries and has been involved with community radio stations around the world. He developed an interest in Landscape after a few years of travelling and aspires to create spatial experiences that have a positive impact.

Felix has a particular passion for community building and the developing the spaces those communities inhabit. He is proficient in a number of design tools and is always adding to his toolbelt. He hopes to continue expanding his knowledge in placemaking while exploring the creative potential and application of new technologies (AI, generative design etc.).
